

Pancreatic neuroendocrine tumors in 2017

Rani Kanthan
University of Saskatchewan, Canada

Pancreatic neuroendocrine tumors [PNET] in 2017 still remain a rare group of largely unpredictable and unfathomable neoplasms. This is further compounded by the fact that though grouped together as a single neoplastic category: these heterogeneous tumors arise from different neuroendocrine cells, may produce diverse secretory products resulting in multiple

Notes: