

A Study to Assess Various Factors Contributing to the Development of Thymic Hyperplasia, Higher MGFA Classification, and Duration of Disorder Prior to Prednisone Treatment

Fnu Shwetank*

Citation:

excessive charges of comorbidity and reciprocal impact of stipulations on both scientific route and treatment. There exist restricted information related to neurodevelopmental and complicated psychiatric stipulations in pediatric patients, like a few portions of proof on the central nervous system (CNS)-related migratory malformations. To the best of our knowledge, this is the first pediatric case document

