

conducting thorough examinations of victims of violence, abuse, or criminal acts beyond direct patient care, encompassing expert testimony in court proceedings, law enforcement agencies, and educational initiatives for both medical professionals and the general public. Effectiveness and impartiality are critical attributes in this profession, as forensic nurses operate at the intersection of justice and healing. The scope of forensic nursing covers sexual assault examination, death investigation, domestic violence intervention, and forensic evidence-based practices and cutting-edge technologies, forensic nurses continue to evolve while ensuring the preservation of the victims' dignity and rights.

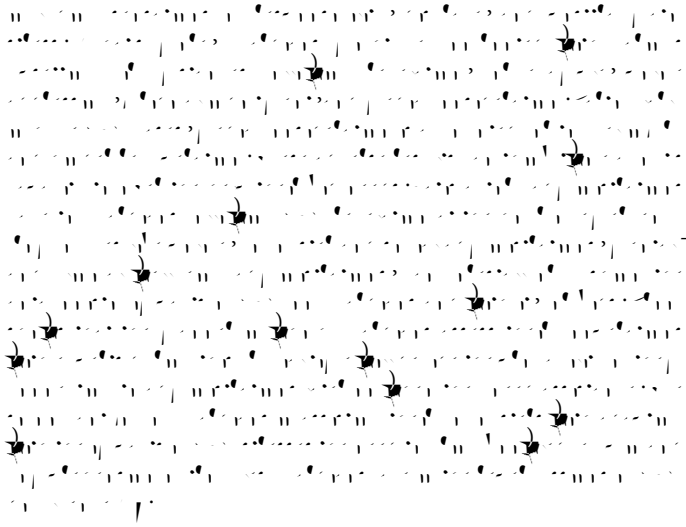

Keywords: forensic nursing, victim advocacy, legal testimony, forensic evidence, domestic violence, sexual assault, death investigation, forensic nursing education, forensic nursing research, forensic nursing practice.

Introduction

Forensic nursing is a specialized field that combines nursing practice with forensic science and legal processes. Forensic nurses play a crucial role in the investigation and care of victims of violence, abuse, and criminal acts. They provide medical and forensic examinations, collect and preserve evidence, and offer emotional support and advocacy to victims. Forensic nursing is a multidisciplinary profession that requires a strong foundation in nursing, forensic science, and legal knowledge. Forensic nurses work in various settings, including hospitals, law enforcement agencies, and forensic laboratories. They are trained to perform forensic examinations, collect and preserve evidence, and provide medical and forensic care to victims of violence, abuse, and criminal acts. Forensic nursing is a specialized field that combines nursing practice with forensic science and legal processes. Forensic nurses play a crucial role in the investigation and care of victims of violence, abuse, and criminal acts. They provide medical and forensic examinations, collect and preserve evidence, and offer emotional support and advocacy to victims. Forensic nursing is a multidisciplinary profession that requires a strong foundation in nursing, forensic science, and legal knowledge. Forensic nurses work in various settings, including hospitals, law enforcement agencies, and forensic laboratories. They are trained to perform forensic examinations, collect and preserve evidence, and provide medical and forensic care to victims of violence, abuse, and criminal acts.

The role of forensic nurses is to provide medical and forensic care to victims of violence, abuse, and criminal acts. They are trained to perform forensic examinations, collect and preserve evidence, and provide medical and forensic care to victims of violence, abuse, and criminal acts. Forensic nursing is a specialized field that combines nursing practice with forensic science and legal processes. Forensic nurses play a crucial role in the investigation and care of victims of violence, abuse, and criminal acts. They provide medical and forensic examinations, collect and preserve evidence, and offer emotional support and advocacy to victims. Forensic nursing is a multidisciplinary profession that requires a strong foundation in nursing, forensic science, and legal knowledge. Forensic nurses work in various settings, including hospitals, law enforcement agencies, and forensic laboratories. They are trained to perform forensic examinations, collect and preserve evidence, and provide medical and forensic care to victims of violence, abuse, and criminal acts.

Forensic nursing is a specialized field that combines nursing practice with forensic science and legal processes. Forensic nurses play a crucial role in the investigation and care of victims of violence, abuse, and criminal acts. They provide medical and forensic examinations, collect and preserve evidence, and offer emotional support and advocacy to victims. Forensic nursing is a multidisciplinary profession that requires a strong foundation in nursing, forensic science, and legal knowledge. Forensic nurses work in various settings, including hospitals, law enforcement agencies, and forensic laboratories. They are trained to perform forensic examinations, collect and preserve evidence, and provide medical and forensic care to victims of violence, abuse, and criminal acts.

3. Wachira B, Martin IBK (2011) The state of emergency care in the Republic of Kenya. Afr J Emerg Med 1:160-165.
4. Ashton RA, Morris L, Smith I (2018) A qualitative meta-synthesis of emergency department staff experiences of violence and aggression. Int Emerg Nurs 39:13-19.
5. JV Pich, A Kable, M Hazelton (2017) Antecedents and precipitants of patient-related violence in the emergency department: results from the Australian VENT Study (Violence in Emergency Nursing and Triage). Australas Emerg Nurs J 20:107-113.
6. Gilmer T, Ojeda V, Folsom D, Fuentes D, Garcia P, et al. (2007) Initiation and use of Public Mental Health Services by Persons with Severe Mental Illness and Limited English Proficiency. Psychiatric Services 58:1555-1562.
7. Golding JM (1999) Intimate partner violence as a risk factor for mental disorders: A meta-analysis. Journal of Family Violence 14:99-132.
8. McHugo GJ, Kammerer N, Jackson EW, Markof LS, Gatz M, et al. (2005) Women, Co-Occurring Disorders, and Violence Study: Evaluation Design and Study Population. Journal of Substance Abuse and Treatment 28:91-107.
9. Connor M, Armbruster M, Hurley K, Lee E, Chen B, et al. (2020) Diagnostic sensitivity of the dynamic appraisal of situational aggression to predict violence and aggression by behavioral health patients in the emergency department. J Emerg Nurs 46:302-309.
10. Gilmer T, Ojeda V, Folsom D, Fuentes D, Garcia P, et al. (2007) Initiation and use of Public Mental Health Services by Persons with Severe Mental Illness and Limited English Proficiency. Psychiatric Services 58:1555-1562.
11. Golding JM (1999) Intimate partner violence as a risk factor for mental disorders: A meta-analysis. Journal of Family Violence 14:99-132.
12. McHugo GJ, Kammerer N, Jackson EW, Markof LS, Gatz M, et al. (2005) Women, Co-Occurring Disorders, and Violence Study: Evaluation Design and Study Population. Journal of Substance Abuse and Treatment 28:91-107.