

DMIFT

Jennifer M Cartwright

Abstract

Climate-change predictions in some water-limited regions, such as the southwestern US and central Australia, fore-cast increasing aridity and longer, hotter, and more frequent drought events (Chiew et al. 2011; Ahmadalipour et provide important and regionally scarce resources to wide-ranging animal species, such as birds and large mammals