

Introduction

Respiratory disabilities are conditions that impair the function of the Patient education is also essential in empowering individuals to manage their conditions effectively. Educating patients about their
