

Automotive

Smart materials in automotive applications can improve safety and comfort. For example, self-healing coatings can repair scratches and