

convert other pancreatic cell types into insulin-producing cells [8].
Techniques such as gene editing and targeted growth factors aim to