

Antineoplastic agents are extremely active biological compounds and their action is non-selective.